

Currency, Economic and Military Wars to drive Gold to $2,000+ in 2014

written by Edward Maas | April 28, 2014

KWN weekly – April 27, 2014

This week Egon discusses on KWN the likelihood of wars, not just currency but economic and military wars. The consequences for the world will be devastating and for gold very positive.

Greyerz: “Eric, sadly the potential of a major war is now increasing dramatically. I would almost say that it’s certain we will either have a major military conflict or a full-blown economic war, which would be just as devastating. And I wouldn’t be surprised if we have both...”

The escalation of hostilities in Ukraine can easily lead to a world war as Paul Craig Roberts has been talking about over the last few weeks. Isn’t it amazing that six months ago nobody talked about Ukraine as a potential catalyst for major conflict?

Click here to read the full article on KWN