

Derivatives will lead to systemic failure of banks

written by Egon von Greyerz | December 11, 2014

KWN weekly – Dec 9, 2014

Greyer: “The derivatives exposure of major European and U.S. Banks are certain to initially lead to massive money printing combined with bail-ins. Eventually it will lead to the failure of a large number of banks....

About:

- Systemic risk
- Are Swiss banks safe?
- A bet on gold and silver

Click here to read the Dec 9 interview.