Nobody Cares – by Grant Williams

The curious case of a seemingly not so precious metal.

Our business colleague and friend Grant Williams created the below podcast video for the Mines and Money conference in London in December 2015. Grant of course is the highly respected analyst behind “Things that make you go hmmm...” and in this presentation he sets out, with a smile, why people should care. If you have seen it published this month already we do suggest that you check the interesting detail of this presentation again. Enjoy!
