

Investors will try to catch a falling knife

written by Edward Maas | July 5, 2014

King World News weekly – July 3, 2014

Greyerz: “Eric, I am focused on the key indicators that will determine what will happen in the world in the next few years. What is frightening is that there are so many risk factors where each one can singularly change the fate of the world. I am looking at currencies, and particularly the U.S. dollar’s race to the bottom. I am also looking at major bubbles in stocks worldwide and the unsustainable debts that will never be repaid. And of course interest rates which will surge to levels that few people think are possible....”
