The August 2013 parade on KWN – Egon von Greyerz

von Greyerz on KWN, Batch of Interviews August 2013

During the month of August Gold and Silver recovered some of the lost ground in a second leg up since the June 28 lows; by resp. 12% (1275-1425) and 25% (19.50-25.00).

There were some very important messages in Egon's August interviews.

The world is most likely coming to the end of a major cycle that could have lasted since the Dark Ages. The implications of this will be extremely serious and last for a very long time. Also, the end of the manipulation of gold in the paper market is soon coming to an end. The only true market is the physical market and we are not far away from the short sellers in paper gold coming under immense pressure. The fact that gold will surge might be good news for owners of gold but the consequence of gold surging is sadly a collapsing world economy. This is likely in the next few years.

For the few privileged people who are in a position to protect their assets against these events, physical gold (and possibly some silver) stored outside the banking system is still the best method to preserve wealth and purchasing power.

For more details on these events please read or listen to the August KWN interviews.

On August 16 Egon thinks about the end-game and goes on to say that Individual Governments and Central Banks are unlikely to be in full control of their country's economy in coming years. Therefore, and for a very long time, they will not be in a position to either save their own currency or to establish a new world reserve currency.
